Bruce Stephenson

Three decades of experience in the shipping, freight and supply chain logistics industry including heading up South Africa's largest freight forwarding company measured in terms of shipments numbers through the country's busiest seaport.

An intimate knowledge of all major air and ocean ports in South Africa having been based in different locations throughout the country during my career. Extensive international travel has provided me with friends and business contacts around the world as well as an understanding of different countries and cultures.

A proud member of the OL global team I look forward to further developing the company and brand in South Africa. Peak efficiency and accuracy together with a customer centric focus and intolerance for mediocrity will no doubt ensure that Oceanwide Logistics will be an international logistics service provider of choice. I am excited to be part of the company's expansion and to be a member of a dynamic global team headed up by a respected senior management team with decades of experience.
